

LAG is a hacklab
is a hacklab
is a hacklab

LAG is a open group that likes to (re-)structure technologies and their interactions.

Participants of the collective are expected to contribute, in the form of content, discussions, workshops or cool projects and where possible share in the costs for running the collective.

Communication in LAG is highly valued, so we prefer that information is shared, but also that people talk to each other in an open and non-aggressive way. While sitting in a corner working on a project is not frowned upon, we do welcome people to interact with each other in the space and with new visitors.

Visit us if you want to participate! We're open for all when the space is open (check the website).

Visit us at: Eerste Schinkelstraat 16, Amsterdam
